Association of Teacher Educators Fall 2025 Communication Intern

Ada Green is a senior at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, majoring in English and minoring in Journalism and Environmental Studies. She previously attended Belmont University in Nashville, where she gained experience in creative writing, collaboration, and revision. She continues to engage with these experiences at UNC, and she's excited to further develop her writing and editing skills as a communications intern. She's looking forward to the opportunity to learn from the ATE team and contribute to their mission of improving teacher education.
